When it comes to your production, the Quebec Farmers' Association is there for you!

The Quebec Farmers' Association

The QFA defends the rights of, provides information to, and advocates for the English-speaking agricultural community in Quebec. The QFA's actions contribute to a sustainable future for both agriculture and the environment while providing a decent quality of life and financial return for the individuals and their families who have made agriculture and food production their chosen professions.

With more than a 60-year history, the QFA is embedded in the anglophone agricultural and rural community of Quebec. We have close connections with many regional, provincial and national organizations, including the French-speaking farming union – L'Union des producteurs agricoles (UPA) family and related producer groups, La Financière agricole, Reseau Agriconseils, Agricarrières, Quebec Community Groups Network (QCGN), the Canadian Federation of Agriculture (CFA) and Quebec 4-H, as well as education and research institutions such as Macdonald Campus of McGill University. We are now the only farming organization in the province that offers information in English.

Members of the QFA believe in:

- Maintaining family-owned and operated farms
- Food sovereignty and self-determination by individuals
- Intergenerational involvement
- Lifelong learning
- Protection of the physical environment
- Preserving land for agricultural production
- Minimum government interference
- Working alone and in partnership with others
